EXPERIENCE

Wyqued Design

2008-Present

After Yahoo! I decided to start my own freelancing business. I have done all sorts of projects, from Joomla CMSs to Zen Cart shopping carts. Below are some of my more recent or impressive projects.

Strictly Aquatics - <http://strictlyaquatics.com>

I was contacted by Larry Rubin with Executive USA to design a 10 page site using a template he had picked out. After coding the template correctly using HTML and CSS, I added some Javascript for a dynamic twist, and a PHP contact form.

B-Bam - <http://b-bam.com>

Sam and Leslie from B-Bam contacted me to code a template they had done as a redesign for their website. They needed to be able to easily change pictures and text as well as have several iFrame pages. This page was done in HTML/CSS, as well as utilized some PHP quote forms.

Nappic - <http://nappic.com>

Nappic was a project from Headroom Studios that I did while doing some subcontract work for them. They gave me the template mockup in Photoshop to code into HTML/CSS and had a lot of need for transparency of graphics. The site is still awaiting content from the client.

Beautiful Madness - <http://beautiful-madness.com>

This site was created for a game group to network and share information. I designed and developed this site using the CMS Joomla, and different Joomla modules such as Community Builder for social networking.

Therapy in Transition - <http://therapyintransition.org>

Karen Klineswort contacted me to do some finishing touches on her Drupal site before it launched, as well as install and configure some modules for the CMS. I also did some regularly scheduled maintenance on the back end for a time.

Inspired Pear - <http://inspiredpear.com>

I was contacted by Jessica Flemming to help them develop Inspired Pear's online portfolio to show off their graphic design and stationary work. Much of the design was already done, and needed to be developed into workable code.

Yahoo! Inc

2004-2008

I was on two different teams while at Yahoo! Inc. First I was on their Small Business Support team, working as the liaison between the Customer Support and the Technicians. While on that team I supported such products as Yahoo! Merchant accounts, Yahoo! Web Hosting, and Yahoo! Domains. The second team I was on was the UX team, which was in charge of the look of the Yahoo! products.
